We will reflect on the spirituality of the laity in Orthodoxy, drawing the writings of Paul Evdokimov, a modern theologian who focussed creatively on Christian life "in the world," as our main source.

This retreat will provide a community environment, with shared meals, prayer in the Orthodox tradition, input by the retreat leader, time for reflection and discussion. At the Refuge, participants share in some household tasks (such as doing dishes), which is part of the community life during our time together. Accommodations include shared bedrooms and bathrooms. Cost: $150
